Integra HR acquires ProKnowledge and expands services

Albany, N.Y. – Integra HR, a Capital Region based company navigating the complexities of human resources so their clients can focus on their core business, has acquired ProKnowledge, a professional development firm that provides training on essential people skills, such as management and leadership, corporate culture, and productivity, among others, designed to enhance employees' skills and the efficiency of an organization.

"The acquisition of ProKnowledge helps us fulfill our goal of expanding the services we currently provide with a full roster of employee-focused training programs," said Integra HR President and Co-founder Jennifer Massey. "It's a perfect fit!"

"We are also excited that ProKnowledge's longtime performance consultant, Elaine Angelo, has joined the Integra HR team to continue to provide clients training coordination and content development to meet their needs," she said.

"The ProKnowledge team has thoroughly enjoyed meeting the training needs of our community for the past seven years," said President Kathleen Pingelski. "Adding PK's professional development classes to the Integra HR portfolio makes a great deal of sense. And the fact that both organizations have a real commitment to giving back to the community is a real bonus."

Founded in 2019, Integra HR works with organizations on compliance issues, C-suite solutions, employee relations, human resource operations, leave management, training, and workplace investigations. With the acquisition of ProKnowledge, it adds additional training programs on culture and compliance, staff development, multi-generational workplaces, emotional intelligence, business writing, delegation, and several others.
